

HEARING ADJOURNED IN SOUTHSIDE CASE

The hearing in the case of the South Side Gas and Electric company, which opened yesterday before the corporation commission, was adjourned to September 1, in order to give the company time to install new equipment.

Under the present arrangement the company is using water from the canal to drive its machinery, and supplementing this with a steam plant. Inasmuch as the new equipment ordered will enable the company to handle the power to be supplied by the United States reclamation service, and will result in the discontinuance of the method now in effect and a new basis of expenses it was decided to allow sufficient time for the establishment of the new system before continuing this hearing.

With the arrival of the company's new equipment next month the present method of generating power will be abandoned, as the company has no contract with the government for water, except for such time as may be necessary to install the new machinery. When that is done the case will be taken up again before the commission, on the new basis, and the hearing re-opened.

NOT "AXE MAN'S" CRIME

Murder of Four Not Thought Part of Series of Killings

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH] CHICAGO, July 6.—That the murder with an axe of four members of a family in this island, a suburb, before sunrise, was not the work of the maniac who committed a series of similar crimes in four midwestern states, is the opinion tonight of detectives who sought the maniac for months. In the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Mielich, their daughter, Mrs. William Mansfield and her baby, officers assert there is nothing by which they can connect the "axe man" who is accused of more than a score of killings.

HELD FOR RANSOM.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH] VERA CRUZ, July 6.—Juan Velasco, a Spaniard, is held by the followers of Zapata at Los Frailes, near Atlixco, state of Puebla, for 1,000,000 pesos ransom. Velasco is manager of an extensive Spanish cotton manufacturing concern. He has been compelled to send to officials of the company in Puebla a demand for ransom with the statement that his captors threaten to torture him unless it is paid. Velasco's brother left Vera Cruz for Puebla in an endeavor to secure his release.

SECURES WOMAN'S RELEASE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH] TRENTON, N. J., July 6.—Through the personal efforts of President Wilson, the woman who was employed in his Princeton home as a domestic ten years ago, will be released from the Mercer county jail to which she is committed on a charge of habitual drunkenness. The woman's name is withheld at the request of the president, who desires to give her a new start in life.

IMPERIAL FUNERAL FOR DENISON

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH] TOKYO, July 6.—The funeral of the late Henry Willard Denison, legal advisor to the Japanese department of foreign affairs, was held under imperial auspices. The body was escorted by troops and buried beside that of Count Komura, who as foreign minister was Denison's closest friend. An imperial mandate issued voiced the sorrow of the Japanese government and dwelt upon the great services rendered by Denison in the promotion of international relations.

URGING UNCLE SAM TO "COME ACROSS"

Rafael Cuadra.

Rafael Cuadra, minister of finance of Nicaragua, is now in Washington. He appeared before the senate foreign relations committee to urge the passage of the proposed treaty, by the terms of which the United States would give Nicaragua $3,000,000 for the right to build a canal over the Nicaraguan route.

VERDE DAMSITE

however is that the rock formation is not of such a nature that the water is likely to percolate through, and thus make the construction of an actual water-tight reservoir, highly expensive and difficult. The site is located about fifty-one miles from Phoenix at the beginning of a horse-shoe curve, and above it is a beautiful little valley that is ideal for a water reservoir.

The action of the board of governors is regarded in agricultural circles, and others as well, as epochal, for with the construction of the reservoir still more land in this section is likely to be brought under cultivation, and an additional power site developed that will greatly enhance values in this section.

Additional Matters.
The emergency water committee reported that 250 applications had been considered for emergency water involving 9967.75 acres, and that 6231 acres had been allowed out of the ten thousand available acre feet of water for perishable crops but only about 1000 acres have made formal application. However, with the increase of water and the rains the committee was of the opinion that this water need not now be used.

The matter of the account of the Portland Cement company was brought up and a resolution was adopted petitioning congress to pass a special relief bill for the company, endorsing one that has already been prepared. This was done with the added proviso that such relief be extended to only such time as the Secretary Lane can abrogate the contract which exists with the reclamation service and the company.

Under the law the secretary has no right to remit any money that is due the United States, all he can do is to collect it. Under the terms of the contract as it existed the monthly minimum charge to the cement company was $1860, so that now there is due the government something like $11,000.

Ten venturi water meters were ordered purchased and one installed in every council district. This was based upon the findings of the board of engineers that tested the perfect workings of the meter.

tion. And then Mr. Hubbel named first Robert Morrison, a reactionary and Sloan's bitter enemy. And he followed it up with Lee Stratton of Graham, Tom Maddock of Cocino, L. L. Hayden of Gila and R. Smith of Navajo, said to be a tool of Morrison's. Whether it was the fact that the committee savored too strongly of the reactionary, or whether it was the steadfast determination of progressives to adhere to instructions not to consider affiliation, the plan advanced by the committee met little success. It met so little success, in fact, it was not even opposed. The idea appeared so ridiculous to the two progressive conferees that when a report was made back to an executive committee at nine o'clock last night, that body turned itself into a regular "old liner" meeting. It got so reactionary all of a sudden that Ned Creighton, seeing no hopes of that desperately needed affiliation left the meeting.

All through the meeting there was demonstrated an odd eagerness to get together, and a strange fear that if affiliation—or some other plan—failed, there would be little chance of ousting the "reactionaries" who are now flying this state waste with taxes and thine. These quoted words are Mr. Morrison's.

A proposal by Hugh Dages included sharing the identity of the two parties, getting together a non-political committee of ten progressives and ten republicans, led by an "empire" to be selected by the two bodies, all to meet at Phoenix a week from this night. Then the state was to be campaigned for a bi-party ticket. He didn't call it a non-partisan ticket, for that would have sounded too much like the progressive proposal, the only positive proposal made by representatives of the latter party. Said Tom Molloy, "We are authorized by the leaders of the progressive party to make no talk except for non-partisanship and this, I understand, is a second string scheme."

The progressives were to have taken no active part in the conference, of course, but when this peculiar committee cast about to see what it could see, its eye alighted upon Molloy and Alexander and Clark. Clark and Alexander had been in conference all morning as part of the afternoon.

Some of those taking prominent parts in the evening meeting, J. L. Hubbel, Celora M. Stoddard, J. C. Adams, Hugh Dages, Thomas Maddock, Robert and Joe Morrison, Ned Creighton, B. E. Marks, Frank Stewart, Judge Parks of Prescott, Jim Kinney, S. J. Tribolet, Jeff Duncan, Jesus Melendrez. Only half a dozen others were present at the evening session.

Many Refugees Coming.

TAMPIO, July 6.—American Consul Miller, acting as Spanish consul, was informed that the only positive of Spanish refugees from Monterey, and other points north were coming here to place themselves under his protection until they can leave the country. This From El Paso.

EL PASO, July 6.—The Villa-Carranza conference at Torreón is in hopeless deadlock, according to reports received here tonight. It is said that both Villa and Carranza delegates had demanded the elimination of certain advisers to which neither side would agree. Practically all of Carranza's cabinet and most of Villa's advisers have been requested to resign, it is said.

HAS EXPELLED ANGELES

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH] EL PASO, July 6.—It is reported tonight on good authority that Carranza had issued orders expelling General Felipe Angeles from the constitutionalist army. This is viewed as a reactionary measure against the Villa faction after their action in confiscating national funds and imprisoning Carranza's officials at Juarez. Angeles was recently deposed as secretary of war in the Carranza cabinet and it is said he was one of those mentioned by the Carranza delegates at Torreón whose elimination was requested.

NORMAL FLOW WATER

A resolution was adopted recommending to the reclamation service that future delivery of normal flow water be made on the basis of the Kent decree which allows 300 inches every eight days, with a run of thirty hours to the quarter section. The practice has been to allow the water to run but twenty-four hours.

IS BASEBALL A GAME OR A SPECTACLE?

An anonymous statistician furnishes a contribution of figures to the Chicago Tribune which raises the legitimate issue whether or not baseball is really the great American game, in the sense in which that term is now used. The approximate correctness of the figures is vouched for by Hugh Fullerton, accepted as a great authority on baseball. Indeed, Mr. Fullerton is the man who discovered "inside baseball," the neutral zones and other things of that kind which had heretofore passed unnoticed by those who merely follow the game for a livelihood and acquire their technique largely by instinct, coupled with incessant practice.

Here are some of the figures: Not one American in fifteen, over the age of 21 years, can catch a tossed ball at a distance of fifty feet once in three times without bunting up two fingers. Not one in twenty-three, batting "fungo" flies, can hit the ball more than once in three attempts, and not one in thirty-nine can hit the ball where he intended, if he had any intention. Not one in 643 can judge a fly ball and get in position to catch it. Not one in thirty-eight can catch an infield pop-out, not one in fifty-three can catch an outfield fly, and not one in 103 can catch a high infield fly if the ball finds him in position. One in eleven will be beaten in attempting it. Not one in 4987 can pitch a curved ball; not one in 391 can locate the plate three times in seven pitches; not one in 1013 can make a hit off a fair bush league pitcher who "has anything," in 111 times at the bat.

These are not all the figures, but they will suffice. Admitting, on the high authority referred to, that they are approximately correct, can it indeed be said that baseball is the real American game in any sense other than that bull-fighting is the real national sport in Spanish-speaking countries? — Seattle Post Intelligencer.

BRIDGING THE HUDSON

Efforts to put life into the scheme for an interstate bridge between New York and New Jersey meet with little public encouragement. The first and chief difficulty is to demonstrate the need of a structure of which the preliminary estimates place the cost at $52,000,000. Obviously, there are too many ways in which that huge sum of money could be put to better uses.

If the bridge were located at Fifty-seventh street, it would serve only a limited class of traffic, principally devoted to the ends of pleasure. For that reason alone it would be primarily a minor convenience, not a necessity. The crowded paths of commerce lie farther south, in the vicinity of the North river ferries. If the ferry service is inadequate, the better way would be to augment it by building one or more tunnels where the demands of business justify it.

Engineers estimate the cost of a tunnel at $11,000,000, about one-fifth the cost of the projected interstate bridge. In maintenance and repairs it would be relatively far cheaper. From a practical standpoint, the interstate bridge, as planned by its promoters, would be a costly and spectacular luxury, appealing far more to the eye than to the pocket of New York.—New York World.

The famous Bennet twin wrestlers

The Bennet twins, of the famous Five Bennet Sisters, who open at the Columbia theater tonight, are the foremost female wrestlers in America and hold the Richard K. Fox belt for championship female wrestling of this country. Not being selfish, either sister will gladly meet any young woman in Phoenix in contest, with or without purse conditions, and if any local girl aspires to such championship, here is an exceptional opportunity to prove her ability.
